

Continued Commitment to staff development at local law firm

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

29 SEPTEMBER 2017 - Fisher Jones Greenwood is celebrating two internal promotions confirming its continued commitment to professional staff development. Ties Bouwmeester qualified within the Family team, whilst Lauren Hancock commences her training contract, her first seat being in civil litigation.

Ties Bouwmeester qualified as a solicitor on the 1st of September and is based at the firms Colchester Business Park. Ties joined Fisher Jones Greenwood as a paralegal in August 2012 after graduating from the University of Essex. He completed his LPC with the University of Law in Bloomsbury, having studied Family Law, Commercial Dispute Resolution, Personal Injury and Clinical Negligence.

Lauren Hancock has been with the firm since 2015. She completed her undergraduate degree in Law and American Law at the University of East Anglia, which involved studying at the University of Birmingham, Alabama for one year. Lauren has previously worked within the legal costs sphere as a legal costs draftsman and negotiator.

Managing partner Paula Fowler commented on the double success, "Fisher Jones Greenwood is a great supporter of developing the next generation of lawyers and seeing these talented individuals achieve the next step of their careers is fantastic. We are looking forward to the significant contribution both Ties and Lauren will bring to the firm in the years to come".
